Distance - 3.2 miles / 5 km Ascent - Negligible Mapa Topografico Nacional de Espana, 1032-I, Mojacar, 1:25,000.

Mojacar Playa is an elongate built-up area along a section of the Mediterranean coast, a typical 'seaside resort' with an attractive mixture of hotels, apartments, shops and other buildings, all linked by a long marine drive. A modern promenade has been constructed at the southern end of this four mile plus development, arguably providing the most attractive walking route.

The suggestion set out below makes use of the promenade, with a small extension to reach refreshment facilities. This walk is suitable for all, making no demands whatsoever.

Start/car parking: Informal parking area behind the beach (Playa de la Venta del Bancal) at the south end of the built-up area. There is a 'T' shaped concrete jetty and the unmistakable Hotel Indalo opposite, map reference 6025 1068.

Refreshments: Innumerable bars/cafes along the way. At the far end of the route two bars/cafes back on to the beach.

Via bike: Yes

El Route

1. Set off along the attractively constructed promenade with pleasant M landscaping, including clusters of palms on the beach and views of the coastal hills. Pass the 'Irish Rover'.
 2. In about one mile, reach the end of the promenade at a children's play area 'Cueva Playa del Lobo'. Carry on along the newly made promenade area.
 3. Pass another of the 'T' shaped jetties. Now you should see the medical centre, drop behind it on 1 to the beach and continue walking behind the back of beach restaurants/ bars in a further 100 yards.
 4. Unless you wish to walk further, turn around to return to the car park either by the same route or possibly starting along the roadside.
- * Note: as you pass the restaurant called the 'Imperial Playa Mojacar' take a left back to the highstreet.
