

Turunç Waterfall Canyon

Walk 5

Walking difficulty: Moderate-difficult Distance: 2.5 km Time: Approx 1 hr one way

In the wet, winter months the river bed is flowing with water from the mountain, so care needs to be taken if there has been recent heavy rain.

When water is flowing in the river you should NOT attempt to walk along the river or get too close to the water falls.

For most of the year, however, the river bed is completely dry, or dry with some isolated pools of crystal clear water. You may even have the chance to have a quick dip in the summer to cool off!

An easy path ascends the side of the canyon providing amazing mountain views, and unusual aspects looking back to the village.

The path is rich in interesting wild flowers and insects. At the top of the track you will find a small water tank. Do NOT attempt to go beyond this point as the track becomes impassable with dangerous drops and loose scree. The return journey simply retraces the same route.
